I hope this accomplishment, which James certainly possesses in no common degree, may be of use to him. Good reading puts me in mind of our friend Mr. Champagne. He was, I am sorry to say, not able to partake of the good things you sent me, being confined by a severe cold to his room for ten days; but the last time I saw him he was quite recovered. He does not think he can avail himself of your invitation to Bevere, as his excursions are now limited to visits to his nephews. Since I last wrote I have been elected an Honorary Associate of the Royal Society of Literature. This is, at present, only an honour, except that it gives me a free entree to their meetings; but it makes me eligible for an Associate, in case of a vacancy; and I should, if elected, then have a pension of 100. a year, in addition to the honour. Our two new rooms are built, and will be ready to inhabit in another month. On the 1st of August, or September next, I trust we shall be setting out on our annual excursion to Bevere. With best remembrances to Mrs. Cary and Jane, I am, my dear father, Ever your affectionate and dutiful son, H. F. Cary. Of Coleridge we have lost sight for several years; he had, however, on several occasions, exchanged visits with my father, having, at intervals, spent a...
